A Christian Needs a Super Bowl Discipline

Today is Superbowl Sunday. As I thought about “The Big Game,” I remembered something that Coach Tom Landry once said. According to the former Dallas Cowboy, “The job of a football coach is to make men do what they don’t want to do, in order to achieve what they’ve always wanted to be.” The truth is most of us want to win. We just don’t want it bad enough to suffer. We just don’t want it bad enough to do what it takes to win. The winner is one who is disciplined. Without discipline, one cannot excel in any sport. Likewise, if we want to win in our spiritual lives, we must be willing to incorporate discipline in everything we do. The Apostle Paul talked about this when he wrote: “Everyone who competes in the games goes into strict training” (1 Corinthians 9:25a). Christians need discipline to remain faithful and receive the crown of life.

My Daddy Prays for Me

When Daddy prays, the house gets still; His prayer gets awful long sometimes, His voice is slow and deep. And hard to understand. We shut our eyes; the clock ticks loud. So I just wiggle up close And let him hold my hand. So quiet we must keep. I can’t remember all of it; When Daddy prays, he doesn’t use I’m little yet, you see. Those words the preacher does. But there’s one thing I can’t forget: He prays for lots of different things, My Daddy Prays For Me. But mostly he prays for us.
