Hogs and Hypocrites

A preacher once visited a hog farmer to talk about Christ. "I wouldn't come to church up there," said the farmer, "I know old so and so and they don't live any differently than me. I am as good as they are." Everywhere the farmer went he talked about the hypocrites in the church.

Months passed by and the preacher went to see the farmer again. "I want to buy a hog," said the preacher. The farmer showed him all his best hogs. In the corner of the pen was the runt of the litter. The preacher spied the runt, "That's the one I want to buy," he said. "You don't want the runt," protested the farmer. "Yes, I do. I want that little, sickly pig," replied the preacher.

They loaded the runt into the preacher's truck and as he left, he said. "Now I'm going to ride all over this county and tell folks this is the kind of hogs you raise."

"That's not fair," the farmer exclaimed, "I have some really nice hogs and you want to show people that runt!"

"If it's fair for the church, then it's fair for hogs", the preacher replied.

We shouldn't talk to harshly about the church. Who knows, it might have changed for the better since you last attended.

Beauty and Substance

Beauty is skin deep, but it does not even exist at skin level when a woman of beauty fails to understand her role in the Lord's eyes. She is like a ring of gold in the snout of a pig because she lacks discretion (cf. Prov. 11:22). What does "discretion" mean in this context? She lacks good taste, judgment, modesty, understanding where her strength truly is. Her strength is not in her appearance, but in her substance. Then she is truly beautiful. Beauty fades, substance stays.
